The idea of this activity was to imbibe the ingredients of 'Coordination' and 'Team Work' in the students. Moreover it also emphasized on the importance of 'Active Listening' and 'Innovation' in achieving the given tasks or goals.

The programme started with an "Ice-Breaking Session" where a motivational video was shared with the students and a small activity concluded it.

The session was conducted with the group of students where they had to achieve the given task keeping the above concepts in mind.

The most important outcome of this activity was that students were able to accomplish the target given to them within the stipulated time frame. The solution to the given task was only one but there were a number of ways to fail. The students had to try, think, listen, work as a team and innovate one single way that led to their success in achieving their goals.

This entire exercise is very contextual with the current scenario which is characterized by uncertainty, complexity and constant change.

There were more than 50 students who actively participated in this activity and the winners and runners up were applauded by the audience.

The program was designed and organized by Prof. Abhishek Upadhyay and guided by Dr. Charu Wadhwa, Programme Coordinator – M.B.A. who was present to guide and motivate the students. Dr. Arun Tiwary and other faculties of M.B.A. were also shared their valuable experiences with the students.
