Points Discussed during the symposium

Subhash Chandra Bose is seen as the symbol of courage and patriotism. He is the pride of Bengal and the great inspiration to all Indians even today. He was born in a Hindu family to Jankinath Bose and Prabhavati Devi on 23rd January 1897 in Cuttack. He completed schooling in his hometown Cuttack and did his Bachelor's degree from the University of Calcutta. He went to England to do his higher studies at Cambridge University. And secured fourth position in the ICS exam. But Subhas Chandra Bose left his Civil Service job and started involving actively in India's freedom struggle as he didn't wanted to serve the British government.

"Subhash Chandra Bose" is one of the most influential leaders during the hard fought battle of Indian Freedom movement. He revived the freedom movement and gave the inspiring slogan of, "Give me blood and I will give you freedom." The slogan 'Jai Hind' which is on the lips of every Indian is also the contribution of our beloved leader "Subhash Chandra Bose". His popularity amongst the common was so influential that for his exemplary valor and bravery he was fondly called 'Netaji'.

Subhash Chandra Bose was a mixture of brilliance and valor and so his ideologies were very peculiar. His ultimate aim was to drive away British from India and he was ready to go to any extent to achieve this. During his stay in Germany, Subhash Chandra Bose created his own army by training the Indians who were residing in Germany and also the war prisoners from Germany, Japan and Italy. He succeeded in creating a full-fledged Indian National Army with 40,000 soldiers and this army was called 'Azad Hind Fauj'.

The contribution of Subhash Chandra Bose to our country is beyond comparison. He left everything to serve his nation and to free India from the British rule. His writings in the newspaper 'Swaraj', inculcated patriotism and aggression in the minds of people. Besides founding an army on his own, he had also set up Azad Hind Bank in Rangoon with an initial capital of $50 million.

Subhash Chandra Bose had a great vision for India. He wanted to obtain freedom not only from the British rule but an entire freedom from all discretionary believes. He wanted equal rights for women in the society. He himself led an example to his vision by creating a powerful women wing in the Indian National Army who even involved in the guerrilla fighting in the jungles. Subhash Chandra Bose stressed upon social freedom.

Mother India has never seen such a fierceful leader like Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose. He ignited the true spirit of patriotism in the hearts and minds of all the Indians. Netaji will be remembered as the torchbearer of martyrdom, sacrifice and an epitome of bravery. Even today, he is looked upon as a role model by many youngsters and uttering his name alone will instil courage in any person. Subhash Chandra Bose will always remain to be an exemplary leader in Indian History.
