POSTER MAKING: A LITERARY EXPRESSION ON SELF REPRESENTATION ON UNIVERSITY DO'S & DONT'S

According to Self-representational Theories of Consciousness, conscious mental states are conscious in virtue of representing themselves. These include: (1) the material self (e.g., tangible objects or possessions we collect for ourselves); (2) the social self (e.g., how we interact and portray ourselves within different groups, situations, or persons); and (3) the spiritual self (e.g., internal dispositions). Self-representation, a movement to encourage people in minorities to represent their own interests. Self-representation (culture), the way we represent ourselves to others within a particular culture. The students of BA English from Semester V, participated in a class activity that brought out their point of view the things around the university campus. Be it, Dressing appropriately (i.e., adhering to professional rather than personal standards, following dress code) maintaining personal hygiene. Using language and manners suitable for the workplace (i.e., adhering to respectful, polite, and professional practices). Featured Resource. Students should be exposed to culture and art forms like painting, sculpture, pottery, music, dance etc. These would allow for creative expression. It would develop a sense of aesthetics and also enhance creativity which would, hopefully, flow into their studies later.

The objective of the activity was to bring in the awareness amongst the undergraduates of the university, as through them a literary expression on self representation on university do's and dont's got its recognition around the campus today. The students presented their hand-made posters and also justified their art to the class audience. The best posters were acknowledged by the Program co-ordinator Ms Rajkumari Ghosh and the event co-ordinator Dr Rupa Sarkar. These posters were also put up on display around the university notice boards.
