Report on- Blood Donation Camp Held on: 30.01.2024

Date of Event	30.01.2024
Name of Event	Blood Donation Camp
Type of the event	Societal Well being
Coordinators	Dr. Padmaja Tripathy, Prof. Manaswita Sharma
Conducted by	School of Engineering and IT in collaboration with NSS
No. of Participants	33

OBJECTIVE: To promote and contribute to the overall health and well-being of the community by ensuring a steady and sufficient blood supply for medical emergencies and routine medical procedures. Creating awareness among the university community and the broader public about the importance of regular blood donation and encouraging a culture of voluntary blood donation.

DETAILS:

On January 30, 2024, the School of Engineering and IT at ARKA JAIN University, in collaboration with the National Service Scheme (NSS) team, organized a successful Blood Donation Camp at the Jamshedpur Blood Bank. The event aimed to contribute to the community's health and well-being by ensuring a robust blood supply for medical emergencies and routine medical procedures. We express our gratitude to Dr. Angad Tiwary, Campus Director cum Dean of Student Welfare, ARKA JAIN University for his presence at the blood donation camp to encourage and appreciate the donors for their active participation. The donation camp was planned under the aegis of Dr. Ashwini Kumar, Asst. Dean, School of Engineering and IT and Mr. Paras Nath Mishra, NSS Program Coordinator, who were the convener of the event. The event coordinators were Dr. Padmaja Tripathy and Prof. Manaswita Sharma from School of Engineering and IT along with the proactive members and volunteers of the NSS team. Extensive promotional activities were carried out to create awareness among the university community and the general public. Posters and digital communication channels were utilized to disseminate information about the event, emphasizing the importance of voluntary blood donation. The blood donation camp took place at the Jamshedpur Blood Bank on the specified date. The organizing team, along with student volunteers, played a pivotal role in managing the registration process, ensuring a smooth flow of donors, and providing necessary support throughout the event. The blood bank staff efficiently managed the collection, screening, and storage of donated blood. The response from the university community was overwhelming. Students, faculty, and staff actively participated, demonstrating a strong sense of social responsibility. The event witnessed a substantial number of voluntary donors, contributing to a significant collection of blood units that will be instrumental in meeting the community's medical needs. As part of the donation process, donors underwent basic health screening. This not only contributed to their awareness of personal health but also added an extra layer of safety to the donated blood. Medical professionals were present to address any concerns and ensure the well-being of the donors.

TAKEAWAY (OUTCOMES): The Blood Donation Camp organized by the School of Engineering and IT at ARKA JAIN University on January 30, 2024, was a commendable initiative that showcased the university community's dedication to societal well-being. The collected blood units will contribute significantly to the Jamshedpur Blood Bank, fostering a culture of voluntary donation and community engagement. We look forward to organizing more such events in the future, continuing our commitment to service, responsibility, and the welfare of society.
