“RUPANTARAN EPISODE 1”
 SESSION ON OUTBOUND ACTIVITIES TO EXPLORE THE UNEXPECTED HIDDEN TALENTS

Date of Event	24.06.2023
Name of the Event	“Rupantaran Episode 1” Session on Outbound Activities to Explore the Unexpected Hidden Talents
Type of the Event	A Participative Learning through Outbound activities
Conducted by	BHESAJAM the Pharma Club of School of Pharmacy
No. Of Participants	45

OBJECTIVE: Engaging students in the learning process increases their attention, focus, motivation and promotes meaningful and authentic learning experiences. Outbound activities place students at the centre of the learning, increasing opportunities for student engagement and contributing to positive student outcomes.

DETAILS: Engaged students experience greater satisfaction. Students experience improved academic achievement and satisfaction, are more likely to persist through academic struggles, earn higher standardized test scores and have better social skills. When students have the opportunity to fully engage in their education – physically and emotionally, they break away from their routine, and learning becomes engrossing. During an outbound education, students take their knowledge with them to make the connections between their classroom learning and the outside. These connections reinforce to students what they're learning is useful beyond their time in the classroom. Also they get the chance to explore their inner talents which is not at all linked with classroom teaching. On 24th June 2023, students of School of Pharmacy freed from their classroom and asked them to do something productive what they can. It was surprised and remarkable that apart from solving a mathematics equation or to work on a synthesis for a molecule they also can do many more things beyond class room. Elaborating their performance what they had done exceptional is describing below. The session was conducted in association with BHESAJAM the pharma club of School of Pharmacy.

Few of the students, stitched plates and cups from the leaves available from local forest. They plucked the sal (Shorea robusta G. of family Dipterocarpaceae) and kadam (Neolamarckia cadamba of family Rubiaceae) leaves. Further they stitched those leaves together with the help of picks made from bamboo stems (Bambusa of family poaceae). Finally they made beautiful plates and cups.

Few other students found to be engaged with making a vehicle start to run which had some starting problem. It was observed that they were the girl students and they were working with the plug of a two wheeler. It's really amazing to found the girl student while working with this mechanical expertise.

Few students found to be engaged with painting, though it is completely opposite to their professional choice.

It was also found that few students were engaged with making brooms with date palm leaves.

We were surprised while found some students were engaged with trimming the plants in garden lawn.

OUTCOMES: Students explored an authentic and memorable learning experience. That is exactly a satisfactory transformation.
