In line with the nationwide initiative to promote anti-ragging awareness, the Department of Optometry, School of Health and Allied Science at ARKA JAIN University observed "Anti-Ragging Week" from 12th to 18th August 2024. The week-long program aimed to educate students about the negative impacts of ragging and to foster a culture of respect and inclusion on campus. A series of activities, including a poster competition, theme talk, and short film screening, were organized to engage students and promote the message of zero tolerance toward ragging.

OBJECTIVE:

The objective of the Anti-Ragging Week, observed from 12th to 18th August 2024, was to raise awareness about the harmful effects of ragging and promote a safe and inclusive environment on campus. Through various activities, such as a poster competition, theme talk, and short film screening, the event aimed to educate students on the psychological, physical, and legal consequences of ragging. By encouraging student participation and fostering dialogue, the event sought to build a vigilant and supportive community that stands united against ragging, reinforcing the university's commitment to maintaining a ragging-free campus.

ABOUT THE EVENT:

The Anti-Ragging Week, observed from 12th to 18th August 2024, was an initiative by the Department of Optometry at ARKA JAIN University to promote awareness and prevent ragging on campus. The week featured a variety of activities aimed at educating and engaging students on the harmful impacts of ragging.

August 12, 2024- The event kicked off with a Poster Competition, where students creatively expressed anti-ragging messages through visual art. Students participated enthusiastically, using their artistic skills to depict powerful anti-ragging messages. The posters conveyed themes such as unity, respect, and the negative impacts of ragging, reinforcing the message of zero tolerance toward this harmful practice. The competition fostered a sense of community and encouraged students to take an active role in promoting a safe, inclusive environment for all. Ms. Tahseen Fatma emerged as the first winner whereas Iqra Hashmi and Shabnam Jamil secured the second and third position in the Poster Competition among all.

August 13, 2024- Introduction on Anti-Ragging- Theme talk , Delivered by a prominent expert in student safety and mental health, the talk focused on raising awareness about the severe psychological, emotional, and legal consequences of ragging. The speaker emphasized the need for a supportive campus environment where students can thrive without fear of harassment. The session also highlighted the importance of student responsibility in creating a ragging-free campus and encouraged open dialogue about the dangers of ragging. The talk concluded with an interactive Q&A session, where students voiced their concerns and ideas, fostering a deeper understanding of the need for vigilance and unity against ragging.

August 17, 2024- The week concluded with A Short Film Screening, showcased an impactful anti-ragging documentary depicted real-life stories and the devastating effects of ragging on students' lives. Through emotional narratives and powerful visuals, the documentary highlighted the psychological trauma, physical harm, and long-term consequences that ragging can cause. The screening was followed by a discussion where students shared their reflections on the film and its message, further reinforcing the importance of a ragging-free campus. The documentary served as a strong reminder of the need for continuous vigilance and support to prevent ragging and promote a safe environment for all student.

TAKEAWAY (OUTCOME):

The key takeaway from Anti-Ragging Week is the vital importance of creating and maintaining a ragging-free campus. Through events like the poster competition, theme talk, and documentary screening, students were not only educated about the harmful consequences of ragging but were also empowered to actively contribute to a safer, more inclusive university environment. The week's activities reinforced the idea that eliminating ragging requires continuous awareness, open dialogue, and collective responsibility. Students and faculty alike were reminded that unity, respect, and vigilance are essential in ensuring that every student feels safe and supported on campus.

CONCLUSION:

The Anti-Ragging Week was a significant step toward reinforcing ARKA JAIN University's commitment to maintaining a safe and supportive environment for all students. The events were well-received, with active participation and engagement from both students and faculty members. The initiatives taken during the week are expected to have a long-lasting impact on the student community, encouraging them to stand united against ragging.

The Department of Optometry looks forward to continuing such awareness programs to ensure a ragging-free campus for current and future students.
