Objective: To commemorate the adoption of Indian Constitution and to explore and express their understanding of the fundamental principles enshrined in the Constitution

Details:

The Department of English, ARKA JAIN University organized an engaging Essay Writing Competition on the occasion of Constitution Day, celebrated annually on 26th November to commemorate the adoption of the Indian Constitution. The topic of the essay competition, "Indian Constitution: Its Core Values," resonated with the spirit of the day and encouraged students to explore and express their understanding of the fundamental principles enshrined in the Constitution.

The competition was aimed at fostering awareness about the Constitution among the students and promoting critical thinking and eloquent writing skills. Fifteen participants from various departments submitted their essays, each showcasing a unique perspective on the core values such as justice, liberty, equality, fraternity, secularism, and democracy.

The event was inaugurated by Dr. Rajkumari Ghosh, Head of the English Department, who highlighted the importance of understanding the Constitution's role in shaping India's identity. The competition was judged by Dr. Manoj Kumar Pathak, Associate Professor of English. The essays were evaluated on the basis of content, originality, language proficiency, and relevance to the theme.

The winners were announced a day later.

First Prize: Ms. Shikha Singh, Sem-I, B.A. English (H)

Second Prize: Ms. Joyaita Dutta, Sem-I, B.A. English (H)

In the concluding remarks, Dr. Manoj K Pathak, the event coordinator commended the participants for their thoughtful contributions and stressed the importance of the younger generation in upholding constitutional values.

The event successfully instilled a sense of pride and responsibility among students, aligning with the ethos of Constitution Day. The English Department plans to continue organizing such initiatives to encourage intellectual growth and civic engagement among students.

Outcome: Successfully instilled a sense of pride and responsibility among students, aligning with the ethos of the Constitution
