During the session, he conducted many activities for our students. Through these activities, the students learned teamwork, time management, critical thinking, resource management, and many other valuable skills. This one day Outbound Training Programme was Titled as “Rediscovering Self: Exploring Persona” which included a wide range of fun, interactive, and learning-oriented activities such as the balloon game, human bingo, dance, vision board chart, straw house construction, tea cup pyramid, musical chairs, tug of war, and a concluding treasure hunt. These activities were carefully planned to create an enjoyable environment where students could learn through experience rather than traditional classroom methods. Throughout the program, students actively participated with great enthusiasm and energy, which helped them build strong connections with their peers and develop a sense of unity and cooperation. Each activity focused on different skill areas, including teamwork, leadership, communication, creativity, coordination, and problem-solving. The balloon game was conducted as a team-based task where students were given balloons and asked to work together to create specific shapes using them. This activity required planning, creativity, coordination, and effective communication among team members. Students learned the importance of listening to each other’s ideas, sharing responsibilities, and cooperating to achieve a common goal within a limited time. The activity also helped enhance their problem-solving skills and encouraged innovative thinking in a fun and engaging way. The human bingo activity was designed to promote interaction and social bonding among students. In this activity, students were given bingo sheets with different characteristics or experiences and were required to interact with their peers to find individuals who matched each description. This encouraged students to communicate confidently, break inhibitions, and get to know one another better. Human bingo helped improve interpersonal skills, built confidence, and created a lively and inclusive atmosphere where students felt comfortable connecting and collaborating with their classmates. The vision board chart encouraged students to think about their goals, dreams, and future aspirations, helping them develop self-awareness and motivation. Activities like the straw house and tea cup pyramid challenged students to plan, think critically, and work together under time constraints. Physical games such as tug of war, dance, and musical chairs promoted fitness, coordination, and sportsmanship while also teaching students how to handle both success and failure positively. The treasure hunt served as a perfect conclusion to the outbound program, as it required observation, strategy, teamwork, and effective communication, bringing together all the skills learned during the sessions. Overall, the outbound activity was a highly enriching experience that boosted students' confidence, encouraged active learning, and created lasting memories. The program successfully helped students step out of their comfort zones, discover their hidden talents, and learn important life skills in a joyful and supportive atmosphere.
