Name of the Event	Career Talk on Humanities to the World: Career Oppertunities Beyond the Classroom.
Type of the Event	Participative Session
Conducted by	Dept. of English
Organizing Coordinator	Dr. Rupa Sarkar
Resource Person	Dr. Padmini Iyer Visiting Fellow, Tufts University Research Lead, Oxfam GB, United Kingdom
No. of Participants	70

OBJECTIVE:

The objective of the session on “Humanities to the World: Career Opportunities Beyond the Classroom” is to broaden students’ awareness of the diverse and evolving career pathways available to humanities graduates beyond traditional academic roles. The session aims to highlight the relevance and applicability of humanities-based skills such as critical thinking, communication, cultural understanding, and ethical reasoning in global, interdisciplinary, and professional contexts. It seeks to bridge the gap between classroom learning and real-world careers by exposing students to emerging fields, industry expectations, and practical strategies for skill development, thereby empowering them to make informed and confident career choices.

DETAILS:

The Department of English from the School of Humanities organised a Seminar on Career Talk Session (Humanities to the World: Career Oppertunities Beyond the Classroom). The department have always been progressive towards new learning and encourages their students to enhance their knowledge not just into text but beyond it too. There are many avenues of Career and Learning that has its significant impact on every field of work life.

The humanities including history, literature, philosophy, languages, cultural studies, and the arts prepare students for far more than teaching careers. They build critical thinking, communication, ethical reasoning, and cultural awareness, which are highly valued across industries worldwide. Humanities graduates are valuable in diplomacy and international development because they understand history, politics, and cultural diversity. Understanding human behavior improves leadership, branding, negotiation, and workplace diversity management.

Dr. Padmini Iyer Visiting Fellow, Tufts University Research Lead, Oxfam GB, United Kingdom, was kind enough to enlighten the under graduates of the Students of Humanities. She introduced about the best career guidance and also gave students a demonstration on how to build up their career with a best guidance and to connect with many different languages and people all around.

The Department of English, from the School of Humanities, is highly obliged to the Arka Jain University, for its positive support in every event. This session paved the path of Career Opportunities Beyond the Classroom to the students of Humanities and has given them a new avenues to explore for their bright future.

OUTCOME:

By the end of the Career Talk Session “Humanities to the World: Career Opportunities Beyond the Classroom,” students will gain a clearer understanding of the wide range of career opportunities open to humanities graduates across global and interdisciplinary fields. Participants will be able to identify how their academic knowledge and transferable skills can be applied in real-world professional contexts, develop greater confidence in exploring non-traditional career paths, and become better equipped to plan their future through informed decisions regarding skill enhancement, higher education, internships, and career networking.
